The Court of Queen's Bouch, London Times.

An august and ancient tribunal-the most ancient and august of any save the "High Court of Parliament"-virtually ceased to exist ou Tuesday, July 6. The Court of Queen's Bench, which represents a tribunal held before the King himself at least a thousand years ago, sat then for the last time, and in all human probability will never sit again. It may not technically cease to exist until November, and until then it sur-vives merely as an ens rationis—an idea or conception of the mind; but it will actually assemble no more. It held a sitting on Monday for the purpose of giving judgments, and those judgments will be its last, for, unless something unforeseen happens, it will never sit agais. It is impossible as (Lord Coleridge observed a year or so ago) to contemplate without a feeling of interest, and per haps a passing pang of regret, the ex-tinction and passing away of so august and ancient an institution. Even in this country, so tenacious in its traditions and institutions, and, most of all, in its judicial institutions, the Queen's Bench, as it was curtly called, or, to use its correct legal title, "the Court of the King before the King bimself"—"coram ipso rege"—was the most ancient of all, and far more ancient than Parliament itself; for it can be traced back clearly in the substance of its nature and charcenturies ago. It is a curious circumstance that, reckoning from the accession of Alfred in 871-the earliest date at which such a jurisdiction can be THROUGH TRAINS. shown to have been exercised—to the year 1870, when the original of the Judicature which abolished it was introduced Cincinnati to New York just 1000 years should have elapsed. To Alexander Cockburn, certainly in many respects not the least distinguished of the series, belongs the melancholy distinction of being the last Lord Chief-Justice of England. The jurisdiction of the court, it is true, is preserved by the Judicature act, and is vested in a divis-ion of the High Court of Judicature. Heket Offices Throughout the South | And its peculiar jurisdiction is vested in that division exclusively. But as a court —as that great court which has existed ever since the Conquest as a distinct and separate tribunal, with that high and tofty jurisdiction which could originally only be exercised by the King in person, and was so exercised by our sovereigns over since the time of Alfred, as that great Court of the King, inferior only to Parliament in greatness and in dignity—its history has closed. All its proud distinction and its lofty traditions expire and pass away and become as things of > great names and historic, often tragic, events; and it was not fitting that it should pass away forever without a word by way of memorial and in some measure of regret. Judicial Frankness.

of the country through a long succession of ages, and associated with a series of Judge Underwood, of Rome, to four young lawyers who had just passed an examination in his court: "Young gentlemen, I want to say a thing or two to you. You have passed as good an examination as a reveal and the same and the sa amination as usual, perhaps better; but you don't know anything. Like these young fellows just back from their young fellows just back from their graduation college, you think you know a great deal. It's a great mistake. If you ever get to be any account, you will be surprised at your present ignorance. Don't be too big for your breeches. Go round to the Justice's court and try to round to the Justice's court and try to learn something. Don't be afraid—let off upon a high key. You will, no doubt, speak a great deal of nonsense. You will have one consolation—nobody will know it. The great mass of mankind take sound for sanse. Navas mankind take sound for sanse. kind take sound for sanse. Never mind about your case, pitch in—you are about as apt to gain as lose. Don't be ashamed at the wise looking Justice. He don't know a thing. He's a dead beat on knowledge. Stand to your rack, fodder or no fodder, and you will see daylight after a while. The community generally suppose that you will be rascals. There is no absolute necessity that you should. You may be smart without be-the standard, and are a disgrace to the Gerri G fraternity. They know more than any Green W fraternity. They know more than any other race generally, and not much in particular. They don't know anything about sandstones, carboniferous periods, and ancient land animals known as forsils. Men that make out they know a great deal on these subjects don't know much. They are humbugs—superb humbugs. They are ancient land animals themselves, and will ultimately be fossils. You are dismissed with the sincere hope of the court that you will not make asses of yourselves."

Packed for the Other World.

Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.] A defunct Celestial was yesterday packed and ticketed through to China heaven by Mr. Wilson, the undertaker. The receptacle for the body was a costly casket, for that pendant pigtail had swung from a "way up" head during life. Around the body was packed an abundance of little pieces of paper, all spotted with gold, such as are seen scatspotted with gold, such as are seen scat-tered along the way when the defunct Mongolians are carried to the grave. These pretties are very glittering, and easily blown about by the wind, and are to attract the attention of the Chinese devils and give the deceased an oppor-tunity to escape while his tormentors are in pursuit of them. The remaining emptiness of the casket was filled with pork, rice, chickens, caudies, etc., upon which the dear departed is expected to which the dear departed is expected to feed while journeying to the unknown. He was also abundantly supplied with Chinese coins, with which to defray the expenses of the journey. In his mouth was placed a United States tencent piece, to show that he came from a land of civilization, and as a passport to better seats and society over there. Lastly, he had a fan placed in his hand with which to cool his heated brow, and as a badge of high rank in the land of his Truner H. Timberiaks TC earthly nativity. With all this prepara-tion he is expected to make a rapid and safe journey to the "Land of the Leal," and a triumphant entry into Kingdom

SPECIAL NOTICE. Don't Make War on the Stomach.

If you are billous, dyspeptic and constipated, don't make war on the stomach by suc-cessively swallowing blue pills, strong purgatives and powerful astringents. Such a procedure damages digestion and weakens the bowels, leaving stomach, liver and intestines, after the immediate effect, in a condition of greater disorder than before. That complete relief which remedies of the above description signally fail to afford is obtained by using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. And for the best of reasons. Biliousness is the result of inactivity of the liver, dyspepsia of weakness of the digestive organs, and constipation is produced by the above causes operating together. The Bitters, being a powerful stomachic, overcome indigestion by stimulating the secretion of gastric juice, relieve biliousness by promoting greater activity of the liver, and thus enable the bowels to act with renewed regularity.
